JAMIE M. HONEY

Jamie,
I'm really glad
I got to know you this year you're a great kid. Maybe Tanya and I will see you down at the mariner. Hope you have a really good summer - we plan to.
Love,
Nancy

Today
maybe someday
we can ride together and you will have your own freedberged dirt bike.

"THE LANCE"

Volume XVI

BISHOP FENWICK
HIGH SCHOOL
Peabody, Massachusetts

FENWICK IS . . .

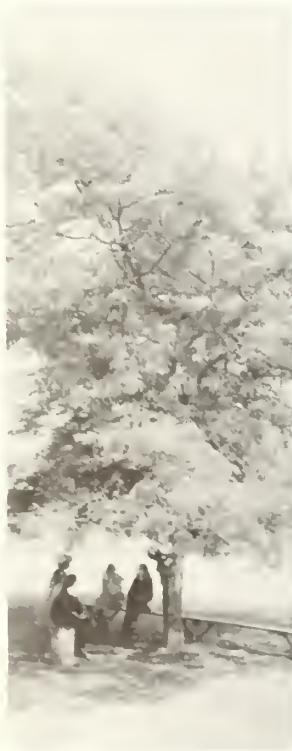

... unique, special people and memorable times make Fenwick truly unlike any other school. The union of distinct personalities and individual life styles signify Fenwick — the close community. Certain memories bring to mind all the joys, sorrows, laughter, or tears formerly experienced but never forgotten. A place for learning, growing, sharing, and giving — this is Fenwick. Each one of us touches another's life in a warm, friendly way.

STUDENT LIFE

Contrasting individuals constitute the student body here at Fenwick. You find the punctual student arriving before the ring of the 8:10 bell, ready to tackle the day's endeavors. Then there are those who, no matter how hard they try, scamper into homeroom during announcements half dressed, going in three different directions.

As the day moves on, the pessimistic become extremely optimistic, and the frustrated and discouraged begin to see a bit of light. It may be time for their favorite class, time to eat lunch or to get together and talk with some friends. 2:20 approaches — another day closer to Friday!

Halloween has been said to bring out the weirdness in people. At Fenwick, we have been known to do some strange things around the thirty-first of October, with or without a full moon!

This page is dedicated to those strange Seniors who dressed up, and the ones pictured here, who did not.

Christmas is said to be a holiday for children. Here at Fenwick we have many big kids who seem to thrive on the excitement this holiday brings. Decorations and gifts fill the halls with the feeling of goodwill.

The spiritual side of Christmas is high-lighted by Fr. Dick's liturgy.

SENIORS

Senior section like senior year is too short. It seems as though we just opened Fenwick's door as Freshmen and now we are taking our last look back before we step out into the world.

Freshmen year was a giant step for most of us. We left the security of grammar school to be introduced to the Fenwick community. Everything was ready for us at Fenwick but we were not ready for Fenwick. We had to learn to adapt and to become members of the class of 1978. As things became more familiar to us, we began to feel more secure and sure of ourselves.

Sophomore year provided us with the time to get to know people better, to develop deeper relationships, and to get more involved with Fenwick. That year we channeled all our youthful enthusiasm to work together to win the spirit award at the Thanksgiving Day rally. We had begun to become a class — one group.

Entering Junior year, we passed the halfway mark and had established a sound base filled with contentment. We knew what was expected of us and we tried to live up to those expectations. Junior month, the Cotillion, class rings and class elections brought us together as a class and made that year more memorable.

With Senior year coming upon us quickly, we were confronted with everything! There were colleges to investigate, careers to think about, and deadlines to meet. We had so many things to look forward to, Berumda, Senior week and Graduation.

Now it is time to leave. Everything is done. We want to let go, venture out, yet our memories hold us back. It is time to close the door. Now we must move on.

Being a senior is a privilege! A privilege because you are the top of the student body. You've had the chance to develop deep and strong ties with other kids, that will last a lifetime. Even those special relationships that grow between teachers and students are real friendships. A privilege because you've experienced all of what Fenwick is — academics, rallies, sports, parties, and the unique and fun way holidays are celebrated. Finally, as a senior your opinions matter.

"After three years of hard work everyone needs a break; that is why we have our senior year. We finally get the courses we want and plenty of free time. Often times the question arises, "Where are you bound for or what are you bound to do?" As seniors we know it is our last year of high school and after graduation we will all go our separate ways. Some will pursue a career heading straight for college. Others will either remain working where they are now employed or look for a job. Still some may travel or just take a year off to think things out. No matter which direction we choose, the most important thing is to take that first step.

UNDER- CLASSMEN

Fenwick is . . . a majority of underclassmen — people with spirit, creativity and individual personalities.

The Freshmen have had a year full of new experiences, all of which they have been busy adjusting to. They're quick learners though! Although one of the largest classes Fenwick had had, many friendships have developed and the Freshmen are a class with tremendous spirit.

As for the Sophomores, they've been taking class trips nearly monthly. If it's not a climb to the peak of a mountain, then it's Christmas carolling at the homes of faculty. But the Sophomores can create laughs out of any activity they attempt — even scrubbing the chairs in the auditorium.

And the Juniors? Well they're planning ahead for college and SAT's. But they haven't forgotten to make the most of their Junior year. They've proved to be a class of winners by placing first in the Rally Day Decoration Contest.

And Fenwick is . . . the community of underclassmen looking forward to their Senior year. For now, though, they're happy experiencing the joys and pains of being underclassmen.

FACULTY

Seven years in a wonderful place doesn't seem like seven years! But what has made this time seem so brief? There is only one possible answer as far as I am concerned, the students at Fenwick. The most caring and sensitive kids that any teacher could ever want have passed so quickly through my classroom door each year. Not many schools have students who ask how you are, how your baby is, or how they can help you, but Fenwick always has. These questions tell me that I have been more than a teacher here, that I have been a "ma", a friend, a fellow woman, and even at times, another kid. If it wasn't for all the other "people" the students of Fenwick have let me be, teaching, at times, would have been an empty job.

Mr. Ralph LeDuc
Principal

ADMINISTRATION

Sr. Catherine Reidy
Vice Principal

The Latin root word for education means "to lead out". Teachers try to lead students out of themselves to seek new understandings. Students lead teachers out of themselves where they discover the joy and contentment that come from working with young people. But most of all, teaching at Fenwick leads both students and faculty toward each other where they join together in the mutual experience of living.

SPORTS

The familiar saying, there is a time and place for everything, applies especially to sports. This activity occurs at a time when books and studying are temporarily put aside. Whether the action is in the gym, on the athletic field or hockey rink, the atmosphere always seems to compliment the activity that is taking place there. Participation in that certain sports event is truly a memorable experience.

One really believes this after feeling the pain and anguish in practice. Getting in shape is the biggest obstacle the athlete has to overcome. Long hours and hard work really test a person's faith. Gasping for air, sweating profusely, the individual looks forward to that break in tempo where a momentary rest gives him or her a chance to recover. Relief soon ends and it is once again time to get going.

In the big game, fans, shout cheers of encouragement, really exercising their voices. Loyal cheerleaders relay their message effectively through word and motion, while opponents are filled with a desire to conquer. Then there is the athlete. Adrenalin starts to flow fast, faster. One becomes engulfed in the drive to win. So many positive thoughts are racing through individuals' heads, yet somewhere in the back of the mind that slight doubt of losing. Someone spies the coach, who is tense, yet prepared for what now lies ahead. The team stands out, its members praising one another. As they unite, their confidence and pride become the center of attention for everyone. Now they are ready to take another challenge.

In the next few pages are those who gave their time and energy to yet another world at Fenwick — sports. They deserve much credit and recognition.

What you should remember about a sport, is not the team's record but the courage and spirit of the players. The constant will to win, which inspired the football players to give their best, was present at every game. Cheerleaders too, expressed much enthusiasm as they belled out cheers of encouragement and support. Many positive feelings were observed even by outsiders. This never-say-die attitude obtained a front page article for the Crusaders in a Boston newspaper. Left unforgotten will be the determination and grit displayed by the football team on the field this season.

"Success, which touches nothing that it does not vulgarize, should be its own reward . . . the odium of success is hard enough to bear, without the added ignominy of popular applause."

Robert Buntine

A good team doesn't need applause because it is its own best fan. Although a large crowd was never present at the field hockey games, there were a few loyal supporters, and the team always played its best. They gave their whole selves — tears of happiness, sweat and joy, and fought with much pride and determination. People wonder why a group of girls would practice in the heat of August and in the cold rain of October. They do, not for the glory, but because they love it!

The cross country teams both went undefeated, closing their successful seasons with 8-0 records. The teams began their training toward the end of the summer with double workouts. They ran mile after mile in the grueling heat to make their dream of an undefeated season possible. The support of the crowds came to a climax at the Dom Savio meet. There was a slight misunderstanding in the scoring, which made the final outcome, the win, sweeter. The following pictures are dedicated to the teams' hard work and effort. Please remember when checking the scores that the low score wins!

This year, a new sport was added to the fall 1977 season agenda, volleyball. The Crusaders were faced with stiff competition in their division, but the explosive enthusiasm seemed contagious, as it spread to the loyal spectators. Fans were constantly treated to some memorable moments. The highlight of the season came at the team's premier encounter with St. Mary's of Lynn. A strong crusader team effort and the support of the cheering fans spurred Fenwick on to a 2-1 victory over the very strong spartans.

The season closed with a 4-4 record for the girls, quite a feat for a first year team. Part of it was due to the hard work of Donna Jamrog and Co-Captains Linda Jaworski and Barbara Heffernan. Jamrog and Jaworski were selected for the CYO All Star Team.

There are as many moves on the court as there are muscles in the body. Grace and finesse combine with physical strength to make basketball a unique sport. Often people look at the number of points a particular player scores, but the game must be a team effort. Ripping down the defensive rebound, hurling the outlet pass, forcing the ball up court, spotting the man underneath, and finally swirling for the reverse lay up. These cannot be done by one player.

Mental attitude and performance are characteristics of a good basketball team. The never-say-die spirit of the boys was seen when down by 15 points and rallied to beat Christopher Columbus by 1. Again their determination allowed them to out rebound the Prep, despite an obvious height disadvantage. Continued improvement and personal growth marked this year's squad and sparked them to sweep their final three games.

Girls basketball is an exciting and absorbing game. A coach executes many strategies and combinations of plays which add finesse and style to the sport. As a player there is always something new to learn and perfect.

This year, Fenwick was not expected to win the league title as they had in three previous years. The first few weeks they found themselves occupying fourth place. Their drive to the top then put them tied for second, and finally the great determination and pride of the brown and gold carried them to win the league title with a 10-2 record. In the end, their hard work resulted in a qualification in the State Tournament for the fifth straight year.

Spirit, skill determination and motivation contribute to the success of a team. These facets have played an important role in the Fenwick hockey team this year.

The players are subjected to hours of endless drills and work from the coaches. There is a deep sense of gratitude to these men. Time is devoted to skating, work-outs, and games, yet there are moments of concern for individuals with recognition that good coaching is more than just knowing how to play the game.

A personal satisfaction comes from playing hockey, but a greater feeling of pride comes from skating under the colors of Fenwick.

Winter track is a combustion chamber of tension and excitement. Quick, spontaneous action explodes in the sprints. Torturous, grueling battles of stamina and endurance mark the distance races. Those fearful but immensely important catch-up points are eaked out of the ever so unpredictable field events. Then there is the relay with the pressure of victory weighing heavily on the shoulders of four runners. They are the deciding factor. They must win.

Calling winter track the height of competition is an understatement. It is a pressure cooker that builds character and determination. It forms a comradeship and team unity common to no other sport, and it's just plain fun.

While playing a sport, praise and encouragement is something you can never get enough of. It may not always come from your coach or the fans but there is one particular group of people whose cheers, spirit, and enthusiasm never die. They are the football, basketball, and hockey cheerleaders. Their loyalty and support was always present at each game, and they too exulted in the thrill of victory, and bore the heartbreak of defeat. Decorating lockers and organizing rallies were never considered a job but a pleasure. These girls are truly indispensable for without them something extremely important to sports at Fenwick would be lacking and missed!

ACTIVITIES

Fenwick is growing socially as well as academically. Through the year there are many clubs and activities that we become involved with. Although we do have class competitions at pep rallies and for ticket sales, this does not disunify the classes at all. Fenwick is a community where everyone can be and do what he wants Drama Club, Cotillions and Proms, Operation Charley and Student Council — the student participation is substantial and always full of love and dedication. We learn about ourselves as a result of joining with other students to make posters for a rally or decisions with a council which will eventually effect the entire student body.

APOSTOLIC SERVICE

Apostolic Service gives seniors the opportunity to share their talents with the wider community. Travelling to a variety of places — day care centers, nursing homes, hospitals, students meet those in need and feel the joy that comes from helping others. Wherever the volunteers help out, their dedication and love are always appreciated by the young and old alike.

THANKSGIVING RALLY

In the course of yearly Fenwick events, there is only one time when all of Fenwick, students, teachers, friends and alumni, unite in order to realize a common objective. The Thanksgiving Rally is a powerful generator of the "Fenwick Force" which has the potential to conquer all. On November 23, the legions of Fenwick faithful, led by the Class of '78, transmitted vibrations that rocked the North Shore and demonstrated once again that the Crusaders are, and will always be, "Champions of the World."

OPERATION CHARLEY

It was a day when we had the chance to give a part of ourselves to someone else. The reward we received in return was seeing the happiness in the eyes of the children at St. Charles Orphanage. For us the realization of the need for attention, affection, and most of all love, came through vividly. Seeing the excitement in the children's faces when receiving Santa's gift was its own reward for the hours of preparation for Operation Charley.

SEMI-FORMAL

Transforming the cafeteria with a maze of red and white streamers, proved the perfect touch to make the semi-formal a successful senior get together. It became a chance for many to develop closer relationships and establish new friendships. The evening with its plentiful food and lively music and dancing, uncovered many talented dancers among the students and even some of the faculty. There was no definite distinction between student and teacher, either. This proved to be another example of the close family relationship which develops between faculty and students through our years at Fenwick.

FRESHMEN SENIOR MASS

Late in September marked the acceptance of a special class — the Freshmen. A Mass was held and a small refreshment time followed. The Seniors used this opportunity to meet and reassure their "buddies" that they were now a part of the ever-active Fenwick community. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves, and the food that the Seniors prepared. These few pictures show the liturgy, celebrated by Fr. Dick, and the gathering in the cafeteria.

LANCE STAFF

Late in August, a meeting was held for those Seniors and underclassmen interested in compiling LANCE '78. To some, the yearbook was something special. It meant a challenge; a chance to express their talents through layout, photography, or literary work. These people became the nucleus of LANCE '78.

Editors and staff knew much time would be required to make LANCE a successful yearbook, but they were willing to make the commitment. Meetings were held nearly every Sunday for seven months. Sometimes the staff struggled straight through weekends and days off to meet deadlines. Now their product is complete and they take pride in their accomplishment. Pride because a piece of each of them, as well as the many names and faces of Bishop Fenwick constitute this yearbook.

"BRIGADOON"

For the past two years Mr. Albert DiGiacomo has directed the finest musical productions in Fenwick's history. This year was no exception! "Brigadoon" was the play, we were the actors, Steve Angelucci was the musical director, and the end result was magic.

The mystical city of Brigadoon swept all into its spell. Work for our production of "Brigadoon" began before Christmas. Actors developed their "attitudes", and sets were constructed. Those in the audience felt transported to the Highlands of Scotland. Our musical is over but the memories of MacConnachy Square linger on.

In this book we attempted to capture Fenwick as we saw it with words and pictures, and this was our product. Hopefully, now you understand the spirit that surrounds and is our school and the special people who make us unique. Many schools use pictures of their building to portray what they are. We use pictures of people because we are people. Teachers and students come from many different communities to meet each day. The joining of these various backgrounds makes Fenwick the kaleidoscope of personalities and experiences that it is.

In the preceding pages you saw Fenwick as it was to us; it is up to the classes that follow to make Fenwick what it will be.

Jamie,

This has been

• ~~really~~ a really good year. I really got to know you especially from english hopefully next year will be even better. Hope I see you this summer Down the willows Keep that great sense of humor.

Love always

Tanya

The first part of the book is a history of the city of New York from the first settlement in 1624 to the present time.
It is a very interesting
and valuable work.
The second part of the book is a history of the state of New York from the first settlement in 1614 to the present time.
It is a very interesting
and valuable work.
The third part of the book is a history of the United States from the first settlement in 1607
to the present time.
It is a very interesting
and valuable work.

DO NOT REMOVE ANY PAGES
OR PICTURES. This is the only full set in the building, please return when finished.
